TO BREAK DEADLOCK
OVER RUNNING MATE

A Dozen Candidates Remain
In the Field for The Office

CAUCUSES TO BE HELD

Delegations Will Convene and Decide Upon The Nominee

By William K. Hutchinson
L. N. S. Staff Correspondent
KANSAS CITY, June 15.—The Republican National Convention was looking toward Herbert Hoover, the newly-named nominee for president today to break the ever-growing deadlock over the selection of his running mate.

A dozen candidates remained in the field for the vice-presidential nomination and all were under serious attack from one source or another. Out of the maze of conflicting reports, it appeared that former Gov. Channing Cox, of Massachusetts, Senator Charles S. Deneen of Illinois, Senator Simon D. Fess, of Ohio, and Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, had the inside track for the nomination.

A series of caucuses by the New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Connecticut, and Illinois delegations may help to end the deadlock. If these states combine on a single candidate, Mr. Hoover may not be required to express a choice.

Two secret conferences were held during the night, and while both lasted until the wee hours of this morning, no decisions were reached. One conference was held under the eye of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, while James W. Good, the Hoover manager, directed the other. Both groups reported they could not agree on a single candidate.

The boom for Vice-President Charles G. Dawes died hard, his name being mentioned constantly by the delegates. The Hoover high command however definitely has rejected him, early opposition due to his known coolness toward President Coolidge being reinforced by Frank O. Lowden's action in attacking the new Republican platform. The Hoover leader declared Dawes could not go on the same ticket with their chief, since the vice-president had stood behind Lowden throughout the whole farm relief battle.

Former Governor Cox was a new figure in the race. He was sponsored by Senator Davis A. Reed, of Pennsylvania when the boom for Governor Alvin T. Fuller, of the Bay State, died a premature death. Reed seemed to be gaining supporters for Cox not only in New England but in New York and his own state as well for this reason and because Reed was believed to be acting for Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, the Cox boom assumed serious proportions.

Deneen continued to be the choice of a large number of mid-western leaders while his candidacy met with favor in the Pennsylvania and Indiana groups. The Lowden action, however, hurt his chances too and his chances were not as bright this morning as yesterday. Deneen damaged his own case by freely announcing that he was not anxious to become a candidate for second place on the Hoover ticket.

Senator Fess remained in the running, being backed by the strong Ohio delegation. Some of the Hoover leaders were insisting on his nomination, because of his loyalty to the Coolidge Administration and his career as a dry leader. The New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts delegations protested against his selection on the ground he would hurt the Hoover chances in Eastern wet states.

Senator Moses was trailing these leaders but with excellent chances of winning in the home stretch as a compromise candidate, his handling of the convention as permanent chairman won him many new supporters among the delegates although his geographical location remained a stumbling block.

Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, declined to enter the race, as forecasted exclusively by International News Service Wednesday. Curtis instructed the Kansas delegation not to place his name in nomination for vice president. Curtis, however, pledged his support to Hoover.

Former Governor Arthur M. Hyde, of Missouri, remained a "dark horse" and Hyde, therefore, continued to be a "long shot" for the nomination. Baker had little support outside his own state.

Senator Walter F. Edge, of New Jersey, rejected yesterday by the Hoover leaders because of his wet record, was mentioned again this morning. The Lowden attack on the platform was said to have improved Edge's chances, as some of the Hoover leaders were angry with the farm groups and urging the selection of an eastern man as Hoover's running mate. The Edge boom was supported by New Jersey with scattered strength in the New York, Pennsylvania and New England delegations.

OUTLINE MOTOR TOUR
FROM HERE TO NIAGARA

It Is A Most Pleasing And Scenic Route To Travel

DISTANCE IS 390 MILES

A honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls is outlined for the newly-weds by the Keystone Automobile Club, in an effort to prove that "all the world loves a lover." The distance for a motor trip is 390 miles.

"Many lovelorn lads and lassies have visited the touring bureau during the past two weeks to secure this information," said Russell B. Carr, local representative of the Keystone Automobile Club in Bristol, "and we have gladly given them service. However, there are thousands that will consider this drive a fine vacation tour."

In outlining this tour through the beautiful Susquehanna Valley and western New York State, the drive for the day is limited to 200 miles. At this rate, Niagara can be reached in two days. The time spent there depends entirely on the tourists.

From Bristol, follow the Bristol Pike and Boulevard to Broad street, and cross Broad street onto Hunting Park avenue. Continue onto Hunting Park avenue to the East River Drive. Turn right into the drive, and left into City Line avenue. Follow City Line avenue and turn right into Lancaster Pike, also known as the Lincoln Highway at Overbrook. Pass through Ardmore, Paoli and Malvern, on the Main Line, and through Downingtown, Coatesville and Lancaster. At Lancaster bear right on the Harrisburg Road to Harrisburg, the capital of the State.

From Harrisburg, follow the Susquehanna Trail north. There is a short detour just north of Harrisburg, which is routed over three miles of macadam road. This detour can be avoided, however, by crossing the Susquehanna River from Harrisburg to Lemoyne and following State Route 14 north to Clarks Ferry Bridge.

At Clarks Ferry the Susquehanna Trail is met. Follow this fine concrete road through the Susquehanna Valley, an excellent farming section. As you bowl along, the grandeur of the mountains, reared in the offing, will be felt.

The Susquehanna Trail passes through some quaint old towns, such as Liverpool, Port Trevorton and Northumberland to Lewisburg. Continue on to Williamsport, a distance of 200 miles from Philadelphia, where it is suggested that the trip end for the day.

The second day's trip continues north on the Susquehanna Trail to Covington. A series of picturesque panoramas will be unfolded to the traveler through Trout Run, Steam Valley, Buttonwood, Blossburg and Covington. The colorful mountain scenery of the Trail rivals that of the Old National Trail and the Lincoln Highway.

Continue on through Canoe Camp, Mansfield, Tioga, and Lawrenceville to Lindley, the first town met in New York State. In Lindley bear right into the Liberty Highway, which passes through Painted Post, Coopers Plains, Campbell, Savona, Bath and Kahona. Three miles outside of Kahona bear right for Niagara, as the other road leads to Hornell. Pass through Avoca, Wallace, Cohocton, Wayland, Springwater, Webster Crossing, Lavonia and Lakeville to East Avon, where the motorist should turn left.

Drive on to Avon, Caledonia, Leroy, Stafford, Batavia, where you bear left again to East Pembroke, Pembroke, Clarence and Williamsville to Buffalo. From Buffalo it is a comparatively short run of twenty-six miles to Niagara, through Martinsville, St. Johnsburg and La Salle. Here the tourist can view the great American Falls. The motorist can also cross to the Canadian side over either of two bridges, as the Canadian authorities have extended the tourists privilege to three months. Queen Victoria Park is a favorite spot.

The return trip should be made over the same route used on the outbound trip, as other trails to the Falls are in bad condition at this time of the year.

—Mrs. Nellie Erthal, of Baltimore, Md., will arrive Saturday and spend several days at the home of the Misses Alice and Mary Lippincott, of Mulberry street.

—Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are moving from West Circle to Mt. Airy, Pa.

—Mrs. Wesley Spencer, of Madison street, was hostess to the "500" card club at her home on Thursday evening.

—Miss Nellie Roche, of Frankford, Pa., is visiting at the home of the Misses Helen and Winifred McIlvaine, of Garden street.

START QUARANTINE
AGAINST THE BEETLE

State Begins on July 1st to Put Restrictions Into Effect

OTHER STATE NEWS

HARRISBURG, June 15.—(INS)—Agents of the State Department of Agriculture co-operating with the Federal government today began initial steps in the establishing of the quarantine against the Japanese beetle. Although the uniformed patrolmen will not take their posts until after July 1, when the beetle is expected to become active, other restrictive measures were imposed today. The quarantine affects all southeastern and central counties.

Transportation from the infected area of vegetables of any kind known as beetle carriers is forbidden except after inspection and proper certification. No restrictions are placed on the movement of Irish potatoes and sweet potatoes when free from soil, watermelons, dried fruits and vegetables, seeds, grain and mushrooms.

Guards to prevent the movement of banned vegetables will be placed at several points near Harrisburg, Sunbury, Lewisburg, Muncy, Pittston, Clark's Summit, Clifford, Carbondale, Gouldsboro and Bushkill Falls.

The guards on the highways will not be authorized to issue inspection certificates. Offices for inspection will be maintained at Milton, Scranton, Holmesburg, Harrisburg, Lancaster and Norristown.

Officials who are directing the drive against the beetle said that more attention will be directed this season on the use of sprays to fight the insects. One of the largest community sprays is planned for Jenkintown. The importance of the beetle fight was emphasized by officials who pointed out the danger of other states placing an embargo on products from Pennsylvania. This move would seriously affect the market for Pennsylvania's products, especially apples, peaches and nursery stock.

PITTSBURGH, June 15.—(INS)—Pittsburgh is fast becoming a convention resort. Statistics compiled by Raymond D. Kenny, secretary of conventions and visitors of the Chamber of Commerce, revealed that eight conventions will be held here in the next two weeks, bringing more than 3,000 visitors.

Here are the organizations that will hold meetings in this city: The American Institute of Homeopathy, the International Hahnemannian Association, the National Society of Therapeutics, International Circulation Managers' Association, Pi Upsilon Fraternity, Phi Mu Sorority, the National Federated Flour Clubs and the German-American Federation of Pennsylvania.

STORMS UPROOT
TREES; TELEPHONE
LINES HARD HIT

Branch Exchange, Cornwells,
Struck by Lightning
Yesterday

CABLES BURNED OUT

One Hundred Stations Put Out of Commission by First
Storm

This section of Bucks County was visited by two severe electrical storms yesterday following a torrid day. The storms brought relief from the intense heat and humidity which made the populace sweeter.

Yesterday afternoon the first storm drenched the roadways and trees were uprooted in the sixth ward. Trees in other sections of the borough had limbs torn loose and branches littered the ground in all sections of the town. Streets were flooded and automobiles stalled in a number of instances.

The storm was accompanied by severe lightning and electric and telephone wires were hard hit. Repair crews were kept on the jump.

Slate was torn off the roof of the Keystone airplane plant and workmen inside had to seek shelter from the rain.

At Edgely several trees were blown across the highway and blocked traffic.

The second storm broke at about seven o'clock and this like the one in the afternoon flooded streets and sewers. More trees were uprooted and considerable damage done.

Reports from the Bell Telephone Company today state that considerable damage was done during the storms yesterday.

During the first storm about 100 stations were put out of order. These were all repaired however, by 6 o'clock. During this storm the Cornwells Central Station was struck by lightning. Service was continued, however, without interruption, although the cables were burned.

When the second storm came along, it caused about twice as much damage as the first. The rain got into the cables that had been burned and put about 50 stations out of service in Cornwells.

These stations are being worked on now, and the Telephone Company hopes to have them back in service by midnight, tonight.

There was very little trouble experienced by the Philadelphia Suburban Counties Gas & Electric Company during the storms of yesterday.

There were a few cases of short interruptions by just a few customers, particularly in the outlying districts. The company had several special gangs out last evening in readiness for any calls that might come in.

Generally speaking, there was comparatively little trouble.

NECESSITY THE SPUR

A new stock ticker service has been perfected which it is believed will be able to take care of a 7,000,000-share market day. This means the transmission of 500 characters a minute, a speed that has never been approached by a telegraphic process heretofore, and that the quotations will be sent over the wires and recorded with as much speed as a fast reader can develop. The belief is that the new device will serve the needs of the stock exchange for years to come, but if surprises come as fast as they have recently it may become necessary to employ the aid of lightning to keep pace with the market trend.

The magnitude of the market became such a year ago that it was decided to adopt a new series of abbreviations for the ticker. The names of securities were further skeletonized and only the final figures of prices in the hundreds were quoted. It was thought at the time that this adjustment would enable the ticker to function adequately, but the bull movement this spring has again swamped existing facilities. At one time the news report of the market fell 45 minutes behind the actual transactions. It is remarkable that this did not demoralize the market, for dealers in securities had no idea of prices when they placed their orders.

What is behind this bull market that has forced Wall Street to close shop an hour earlier and has given the appearance of a snail's pace to the ticker, once pointed to as symbolical of the speed of modern civilization? One impetus is the rapidly growing number of men and women who are playing the market. This pastime and field of investment and gambling are no longer open only to bankers, professional speculators and the rich.

EVOLUTION OF SPEECH

The wail of the purist who clamors to have England build a high wall against the slang of America and America build a high wall against the slang of England is certainly the voice of one crying in the wilderness. His complaint is not against all slang, but against imported slang.

Adopted words, expressions and slang need meet but one qualification. Do they meet a requirement in speech or writing? As long as they convey the impression intended what does it matter where they came from? If slang serves better than pure English, use slang. If a foreign word fits better than a word of pure Anglo-Saxon origin, use the borrowed word. You can bank on it that the purest English will be used where it is the most facile and clear.

Most languages are receptive to foreign locutions; none so much so as English. At all times in its history English has been open to receive alien words and idioms. Even in its so-called Anglo-Saxon period, when it was most homogeneous, most nearly all of one piece, the infiltration from other languages was extensive. From the peacefully conquering churchmen who accompanied Augustine it took over ecclesiastical terms in great numbers; from the fiercely marauding northmen it took vocabularies and even perhaps, certain grammatical forms; from the permanently conquering and rigidly ruling Normans it took words in great numbers and lost most of those inflexions which had given it so high a place among the synthetic languages of the world.

State News

HARRISBURG, June 15—(INS)—Swine growers lose heavily each year because of failure to separate newly purchased animals from the rest of the herd. Dr. John Winstanley, special field agent on swine diseases for the Pennsylvania bureau of animal husbandry, said today.

Swine purchased from any source should be separated from the home herd for a period of 20 to 30 days. Winstanley asserted. This plan is not only important in the prevention of hog cholera, but it is also an excellent precautionary measure for other swine diseases, he added.

Winstanley cited the case of a grower who purchased a sow at a public sale and introduced her into this herd at once. The entire herd died of hog cholera.

The importance of treating all members of a herd where the double serum and virus treatment is employed was emphasized. Hogs treated with virus may become spreaders of hog cholera, it was pointed out, for a brief period after inoculation.

CHESTER, Pa., June 15—(INS)—The plans of the Baldwin Locomotive Works for years to move their plant to Eddystone will be realized before the end of this month, officials have announced. Each day sees several loads of apparatus, files, records and other equipment transferred to the new plant.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis will be the principal speaker at the exercises on June 28 when the Eddystone plant will be dedicated. Samuel M. Vaulrain, president of the company, will preside. The annual meeting of the board of directors also will take place on the same day, marking the complete removal of the Philadelphia plant.

Thomas Toodle, of Trenton, N. J., was a recent guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Leech, of Wood street.

Thomas Smoyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Smoyer, of Market street, graduated from the Germantown Academy this week, and has returned to his home, where he is passing the summer.

James Connors, of Bath street, and sister, Mrs. Samuel Dixon, of Laings Gardens, were recent visitors at the home of their grandmother, Mrs. Connors, of Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Kivior, of Wilson avenue, Mrs. Ethel Hayden, of Wood street, and Marty Jarvis, of Trenton, N. J., witnessed the performance at the Lincoln Theatre in Trenton on Thursday evening.
